- Reducing post-processing
- Shortening processing times
- Improving transparency for tracing operations
- Reducing enquiries and the associated direct and indirect cost benefits and quality improvements

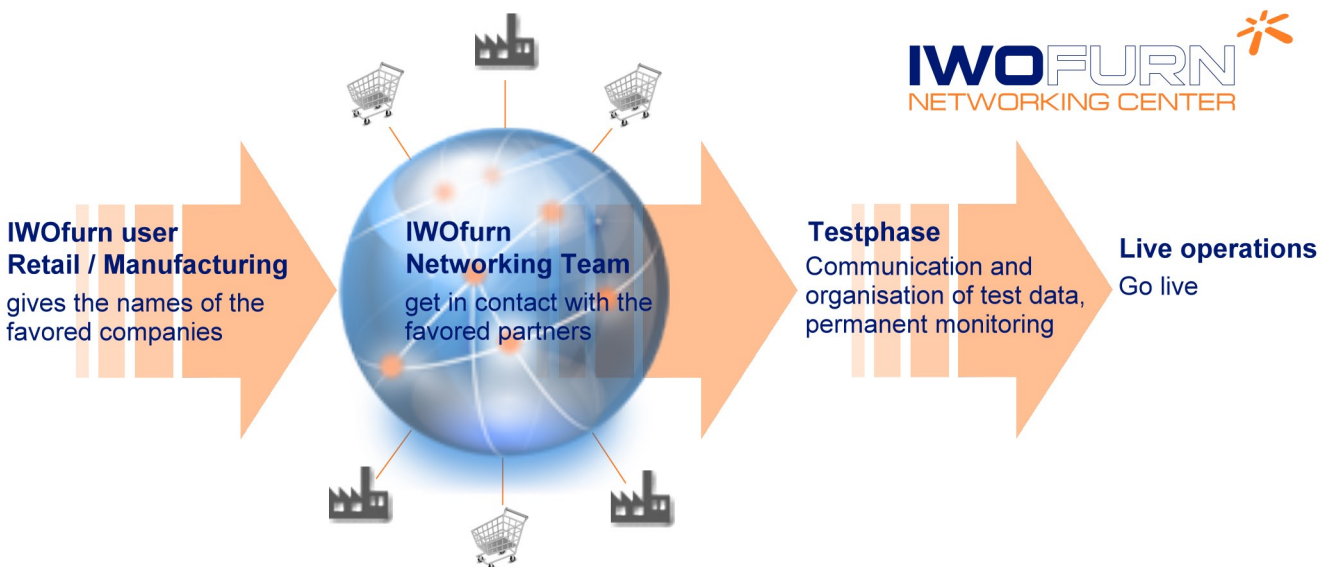

The IWOfurn Networking Center shall support you as you connect with further partners via the following

- Written and telephone conversations with your desired EDI partner
- Coordination and monitoring from test phase to service launch
- Communication support between trade and manufacturing
- Help with troubleshooting

How does the IWOfurn Networking Center Work?

We define a period of time with your company within which you would like to connect your ERP/WWS via EDI with a specific number of companies. You provide us with a responsible contact person in your company, who shall be actively available during the planned period for any test orders or other test messages up until service launch. You give us the names of the companies with which you would like to exchange electronic news or catalogues in the future.

The IWOfurn Networking Center shall find the responsible contact person for you and shall request a first exchange of test messages on your behalf. The IWOfurn Networking Center shall, in this regard, coordinate and monitor test operation up until service launch.
